INDEX

Index to Volume 6

6:1

EDITORIAL 2

ARTICLES

Len Barton
Teachers under siege: A case of unmet needs 3

Norman Butt
A role for the SEN co-ordinator in the 1990s: A reply to Dyson 9

Gordon Malone
Special needs forever! 15

John Moore
Local education authority restructuring under ERA: Meeting or creating special educational needs? 16

Paul Cooper and Graham Upton
Controlling the urge to control: An ecosystemic approach to problem behaviour in schools 22

Ron Best
Support teaching in a comprehensive school: Some reflections on recent experience 27

Terence Bailey
Classroom observation: A powerful tool for teachers? 32

John Acklaw and Yash Gupta
Talking with parents of 'dyslexic' children: The value of skilled discussion methods 37

Notes on contributors 40

REVIEWS
Teachers' books 41
Classroom books and materials 44

6:2

EDITORIAL 50

ARTICLES

Alan Dyson
Rethinking roles, rethinking concepts: Special needs teachers in mainstream schools 51

Trevor Payne
It's cold in the other room 61

Christopher Dyer
An end to the slow lane: A critique of the term 'slow learner' and its lingering usage 66

John Ashley
Personal constructs – an alternative approach? 71

David Thomas
Reflective or reactive? Role dilemmas for teachers and education tutors 77

Lena Green
Mainstreaming: The challenge for teachers in South Africa 84

Chris Sawyer and Emma Knight
A fast method for calculating text readability levels 90

Notes on contributors 91

REVIEWS
Teachers' books 92
Classroom resources and books 94
Software 96

6:3

EDITORIAL 98

ARTICLES

Martin Turner
Finding out 99

David P. Thomas
A framework for teaching reading 103

Donald Moyle
Methods of teaching reading: The debate resolved 108

Keith Topping
Achieving more with less: Raising reading standards via parental involvement and peer tutoring 112

Juliet Stone and Keith Harris
These coloured spectacles: What are they for? 116

Will Robinson
Rich seams of mind 119

Dolores Loughrey
Hands on: Computer experience and the child with special educational needs 124

Chris McConville and John Williamson
Writing, the National Curriculum and children with special needs 127

Notes on contributors 133

REVIEWS
Books 134
Classroom books, materials and software 140

6:4

EDITORIAL 144

ARTICLES

David Wray
A chapter of errors: A response to Martin Turner 145

Sarah Sandow and Philip Garner
The role of the on-site behavioural support unit 150

Jenny Mosley
An evaluative account of the working of a dramatherapy peer support group within a comprehensive school 156

Joyce James, Tony Charlton, Elizabeth Leo and Derek Indoe
A peer to listen 165

Mary Kelly
The role of learning support: A trefoil catalyst? 170

Rosemary Chesson, Christina McKay and Elizabeth Stephenson
The consequences of motor/learning difficulties for school-age children and their teachers: Some parental views 173

Harry Daniels and Bob Hogg
European integration: A view of regional practices 178

Notes on contributors 183

REVIEWS
Books 185
Classroom books and materials 188

INDEX 190

INDEX

Index to Volume 6

6:1

EDITORIAL 2

ARTICLES

Len Barton
Teachers under siege: A case of unmet needs 3

Norman Butt
A role for the SEN co-ordinator in the 1990s: A reply to Dyson 9

Gordon Malone
Special needs forever! 15

John Moore
Local education authority restructuring under ERA: Meeting or creating special educational needs? 16

Paul Cooper and Graham Upton
Controlling the urge to control: An ecosystemic approach to problem behaviour in schools 22

Ron Best
Support teaching in a comprehensive school: Some reflections on recent experience 27

Terence Bailey
Classroom observation: A powerful tool for teachers? 32

John Acklaw and Yash Gupta
Talking with parents of 'dyslexic' children: The value of skilled discussion methods 37

Notes on contributors 40

REVIEWS
Teachers' books 41
Classroom books and materials 44

6:2

EDITORIAL 50

ARTICLES

Alan Dyson
Rethinking roles, rethinking concepts: Special needs teachers in mainstream schools 51

Trevor Payne
It's cold in the other room 61

Christopher Dyer
An end to the slow lane: A critique of the term 'slow learner' and its lingering usage 66

John Ashley
Personal constructs – an alternative approach? 71

David Thomas
Reflective or reactive? Role dilemmas for teachers and education tutors 77

Lena Green
Mainstreaming: The challenge for teachers in South Africa 84

Chris Sawyer and Emma Knight
A fast method for calculating text readability levels 90

Notes on contributors 91

REVIEWS
Teachers' books 92
Classroom resources and books 94
Software 96

6:3

EDITORIAL 98

ARTICLES

Martin Turner
Finding out 99

David P. Thomas
A framework for teaching reading 103

Donald Moyle
Methods of teaching reading: The debate resolved 108

Keith Topping
Achieving more with less: Raising reading standards via parental involvement and peer tutoring 112

Juliet Stone and Keith Harris
These coloured spectacles: What are they for? 116

Will Robinson
Rich seams of mind 119

Dolores Loughrey
Hands on: Computer experience and the child with special educational needs 124

Chris McConville and John Williamson
Writing, the National Curriculum and children with special needs 127

Notes on contributors 133

REVIEWS
Books 134
Classroom books, materials and software 140

6:4

EDITORIAL 144

ARTICLES

David Wray
A chapter of errors: A response to Martin Turner 145

Sarah Sandow and Philip Garner
The role of the on-site behavioural support unit 150

Jenny Mosley
An evaluative account of the working of a dramatherapy peer support group within a comprehensive school 156

Joyce James, Tony Charlton, Elizabeth Leo and Derek Indoe
A peer to listen 165

Mary Kelly
The role of learning support: A trefoil catalyst? 170

Rosemary Chesson, Christina McKay and Elizabeth Stephenson
The consequences of motor/learning difficulties for school-age children and their teachers: Some parental views 173

Harry Daniels and Bob Hogg
European integration: A view of regional practices 178

Notes on contributors 183

REVIEWS
Books 185
Classroom books and materials 188

INDEX 190